

How to Care for Your Pet's Teeth

Because healthy teeth mean a happier pet!

1. Daily Tooth Brushing

Brushing is the best way to prevent plaque build-up before it turns into solid tartar. Use pet-safe toothpaste (never human toothpaste) and a toothbrush designed for pets.

- Start slowly and use positive rewards to get your pet comfortable with brushing.
- Even brushing 3 times a week can significantly reduce the risk of dental disease and the need for advanced treatments.

2. Maintain Oral Hygiene

For pets who won't tolerate brushing, or to use alongside it, Stomodine F and Contego Mouth Wash offer simple and effective solutions for oral hygiene.

- Stomodine F – A palatable gel which helps to reduce bacteria, slow plaque build-up, and soothe sensitive gums.
- Contego Mouth Wash – A high-purity hypochlorous acid rinse, supporting fresh breath and healthy gums without irritation.
- Easy to Use – Both products are quick to apply and ideal for daily dental care at home.

Join the Movement!

Celebrate Pet Dental Health Month and give your pets the care they deserve. Ask your vet or vet nurse today about how to make dental care a part of your pet's daily routine.

3. Diet Matters

Feeding some dry biscuits as part of your pet's meal can help remove plaque as they chew, though it's not a substitute for brushing.

- Dental chews and toys can also reduce plaque and tartar build-up while keeping your pet entertained.
- Remember to supervise your pet and include chews in their daily food allowance to avoid weight gain.

4. Regular Check-Ups

Schedule routine dental check-ups with your vet, especially during annual vaccinations or boosters, to catch any dental problems early.
